ITALIAN CRUISER TORPEDOED AND SUNK

In the Adriatic This Morning by an Austrian Submarine--Sank Within Fifteen Minutes After Being Attacked.

(Special to The Herald)

Vienna, July 19.—The Italian armored cruiser Giuseppe Garibaldi was torpedoed and sunk in the Adriatic Sea early this morning by an Austrian submarine, it is officially announced by the Austrian Admiralty.

The cruiser was attacked south of Ragusa and sank within fifteen minutes after being attacked. She was 344 feet long, 59 feet wide, had a tonnage of 7,234 and formerly carried a complement of 550 men.

From the position of the attack, it is evident that the cruiser was one of the ships in the Italian squadron which has been patrolling the Dalmatian coast, bombarding the Austrian position from time to time.

PRESIDENT IN CONFERENCE WITH LANSING

(Special to The Herald)

Washington, July 19.—President Wilson's return here today is the stage for official conferences on the reply to the German note and the drafting of the answer that is expected to acquaint Germany finally with this government's unalterable attitude on the Kaiser's submarine warfare.

Within an hour after his arrival the President was in conference with Secretary of State Lansing. Secretary Lansing declared he had no report other than that in the newspapers on the Orduna incident.

The President has the tentative draft of the note in his mind and it will be put into shape tomorrow. It is expected that the American reply will not encourage further parley with Germany, which government has already sent two evasive communications.

Over three hundred took in the excursion from Manchester and Concord to the Isles of Shoals on Sunday.

ROCKLAND WATER FRONT THREATENED

One Man Killed and Three Seriously Burned When Tank Steamer Explodes.

(Special to The Herald)

Rockland, Me., July 19.—One man was killed and three others seriously burned when the Standard Oil steamer Petrolia III blew up at her wharf here today. The steamer was totally destroyed and $1100 of gasoline intended for distribution along the Maine coast went up in smoke. Following the explosion, fire caught the Atlantic wharf where the vessel was tied up and for some time the whole waterfront was threatened. The explosion shook the whole city and country side for many miles around.

The dead man is Fred Wilson, the steamer's cook. He was blown out of the galley and landed in the water 100 feet away. He leaves a wife and five children.

The injured are Captain Toole, Engineer Martin Day, and Lester Post, a deck hand. All the crew are from Boothbay Harbor, Me. All three men were blown into the water by the explosion and landed several feet away. Captain Toole had both legs broken and is severely burned. All three are at the hospital with their names on the dangerous list.

KILLS GROWN UP SON AND DAUGHTER

Groton Business Man Tries to Wipe Out Entire Family at Early Hour Today--Wife Flees in Her Night Clothes.

(Special to The Herald)

Groton, Mass., July 19.—Harry E. Nutting, a well known farmer and business man of this town shot and killed his grown up son and daughter early today while they lay in bed.

The dead are Everett, aged 20, and Louise, aged 22. The wife escaped in her night clothes. Nutting later surrendered himself to the town constable. The reason given for the shooting is insanity caused by the extreme heat combined with family and financial troubles.

About four o'clock this morning, Nutting arose and took down from the wall a double barreled shot gun. Going first to the room of his son Everett, he shot the young man as he lay asleep. He then went to the adjoining room occupied by his daughter Louise. She had been awakened by the shot that killed her brother, but had not had time to leave the bed. The father standing in the doorway fired point blank at her and she died instantly.

Mrs. Nutting was awakened by the first shot and going to her daughter's room she saw the girl killed. She fled just as her husband fired at her. His shot missed, and dressed only in her nightgown, she made her escape from the house safely and fled in her bare feet to a neighbor's house.

Nutting is said to have been troubled with the extreme heat the past few days, and he is also said to have had trouble with his family over the approaching marriage of his daughter Louise with a young man to whom he objected. Nutting has hitherto been a highly respected citizen of this town with a good reputation.

Nutting was taken into the district court at Ayer shortly before noon, and at the request of both the prosecution and the defense, the case was continued until next week. Nutting was held without bail and sent to the county jail at Cambridge.

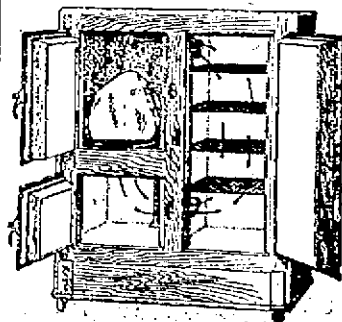

SHE RAN AWAY.

Exeter Man Asks Police to Find His 13-Year-Old Daughter.

Frank White, a resident of Exeter, called at the police headquarters today and asked the aid of the officers in finding his thirteen year old daughter Laura who has been missing from her home since Saturday. The girl, he said had never been away from home before, and he believed she ran away with an automobile driver. The police later learned that she did come here with the driver who left her alone in Portsmouth at four o'clock on Sunday morning. She was last seen on the electric cars for Hampton Beach. The police of Hampton were also ordered to pick her up if they found her.

LEO FRANK'S INJURY MAY YET PROVE FATAL

(Special to The Herald)

Atlanta, Ga., July 19.—That the optimistic report given out by some of the physicians attending Leo Frank was not justified was shown by a long distance telephone conversation with Dr. H. A. Moses of Marion, who visited Frank this morning.

Dr. Moses stated that although he o'clock this morning for Pittsburgh did not believe Frank's condition critical, the injury might yet prove fatal. In which his mother, Mrs. Mary Cor. The wound shows some swelling due to the hot weather, and there is some danger from that.

THAW LEAVES PHILADELPHIA FOR HIS HOME

(Special to The Herald)

Philadelphia, July 19.—A free man for almost 72 hours without taking a drink and without doing anything especially spectacular except trying to run away from his newspaper escort last night at the Haymarket Station, Harry K. Thaw left here at 8.40 where he will visit his boyhood home. Thaw has determined and pluckily waged a fight for his release for nine whole years.

MARINES PULLED DOWN SUNSET LEAGUE LEADERS

Won Saturday's Extra Inning Game 2 to 1 Causing Triple Tie in Stand- ing

In one of the best Sunset League games of the season the Naval Prison Marines defeated the Y. M. C. A. Saturday afternoon, 2 to 1, in a six inning game. It was a game won on merits, the Marines out-playing the Y. M. C. A. team in every department. They played perfect baseball all the way through, not making an error. Incidentally, the loss of the game pulls the Y. M. C. A. out of the lead and places them in the triple tie for first honors with the Morley Button Company and the Portsmouth Athletic Club.

Shuttleworth was in the box for the Y. M. C. A., and pitched good ball, but it wasn't his day and he was defeated. Hanlon, who worked behind the bat in Friday's game for the Marines, was in the box Saturday and was working fine. He allowed only three safe hits, McPheters getting two of them and Brackett clouting out a timely three-bagger to left, scoring the one run made by his team.

Good stick work was done by Deleiden and Argue for the Marines, each getting two hits out of three times at bat. The only other hit was made by Strand in the sixth, a single, scoring the first run for the Marines. The run made by the Y. M. C. A. came from a fielder's choice and a three-base hit, the Marines making their two runs on two hits and two errors.

It was an interesting game and the excitement was probably at a greater height than at any of the games played this season. It was peculiar in some ways, as some plays were duplicated. Tharau and Thomas were both fanned twice; McPheters, Deleiden and Argue each made two hits, each placing their second close to the place where their first ones landed; Jordan was twice thrown out at first by the pitcher; Gibson's two put-outs were made off flies from Caster; Butler was given two bases on balls and the two men who stole bases, Butler and McPheters, each had two to their credit.

The Game
1st Inning—Butler was struck out. Mulholland was out on a fly to Deleiden in left. McPheters singled to right, stole second, making a dive for the bag that tipped the basemen over. Brackett flied out to Rohm at short. Caster hit to Butler, who threw wild to first, Caster going to second on the overthrow. Deleiden hit to Butler, who threw to third, getting Caster, Marden covering the base. Lennon was hit by a pitched ball, taking second on a passed ball. Hanlon was out at first. Shuttleworth to Brackett. Shuttleworth holding the base-runners on. Strand hit to center and Mulholland made a fine running catch of the fly, retiring the side. No runs.

2d Inning—Marden was out at first, Caster to Argue. Jordan was thrown out at first, Hanlon to Argue. Gibson grounded out, Rohm to Argue. No runs.

Argue singled over second. Eberhard was fanned, Argue starting for second as the third strike was thrown, and was out, Thomas to Brackett to Jordan. Rohm was thrown out at first, Shuttleworth to Brackett. No runs.

3d Inning—Hanlon got busy and fanned Thomas and Shuttleworth. Butler drew a free ticket in the shape of four bad ones, and stole second. Mulholland was out at first, Caster to Argue. No runs.

Tharau was fanned on three pitched balls. Caster flied out to Gibson in left. Deleiden lined safely to left just inside the third base line. Lennon hit to short, forcing Deleiden at second, Marden to Jordan. No runs.

4th Inning—McPheters made his second hit, getting one out past the second baseman. Brackett and Marden were struck out. Jordan was out at first for the second time, Hanlon to Argue. No runs.

Hanlon hit a foul fly that Brackett captured. Strand hit to the infield and was out at first, Shuttleworth to Brackett. Argue made his second hit, again getting one out back of second base. Eberhard was thrown out at first, Shuttleworth to Brackett. No runs.

5th Inning—Gibson was walked. Thomas fanned. Shuttleworth hit to short, forcing Gibson out at second and was doubled out at first; Rohm to Caster to Argue. No runs.

Shuttleworth fanned Rohm and Tharau, getting the latter for the second time. Caster was out on a fly to Gibson. No runs.

6th Inning—Butler was passed and stole second. Mulholland was out at first, Caster to Argue. Butler going to third. McPheters was safe at second on a grounder to third, Butler attempting to score, and was out, Eberhard to Strand to Rohm. Brackett pitched out a good one after getting two strikes and fanned it out to center for three bases, scoring McPheters from second. Marden made the third out with a fly to Eberhard. One run.

Deleiden singled with a hit to left field. Lennon hit to Jordan, who fanned the ball, both men being safe. Hanlon flied out to Mulholland, who held the runners on the bases by a quick return to the infield. Strand singled to left, scoring Deleiden with the being run, Lennon going to third on the play. Argue hit to Shuttleworth, who fanned the ball, Lennon going across with the winning run. Argue's grounder was so far out toward third that if Shuttleworth had made a perfect stop and throw it would have been impossible to have cut off the run. The best that could have been done was to get the batter out at first. The run would have counted on that play.

PORTSMOUTH LOST TO DOVER

The employees of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company in Dover, Rochester, Somersworth, Exeter, Newmarket, Portsmouth and other places in southeastern New Hampshire had a field day at York Beach Saturday, under the auspices of

JIMMY SCOTT, WHITE SOX PITCHER, NOW IN RARE MIDSEASON FORM.

A game that Jimmy Scott of the Chicago Americans pitched recently against the Athletics stamps him as one of the best twirlers in the American league. Scott shut out the once heavy hitting aggregation of Connie Mack. Only thirty Athletics faced him. The final score was 7 to 0. Three double plays by the White Sox infield wrecked the few Philadelphia openings up to the seventh inning, when Lajoie's two base hit and McBain's single put two Athletics on the lines for the only time in the game. Scott then earned the plaudits of the crowd by fanning three pinch hitters Mack sent up. Scott has control, plenty of speed and nerve in the pinches, as was finely exemplified in the recent game against the Athletics.

well back into his mouth. The punch knocked him down and before he could get his senses he was fanned twice more. But he weathered the round and made up his mind that he would have to be more careful. The bride was sticking back in his mouth and because of his gloves he couldn't pull it back in place, nor could he speak with it in that position and tell his seconds about it. So he just had to fight on. Along in the eleventh round he figured that if he could get just one drink of American whiskey he would be saved.

He felt himself slipping but such a thing as American whiskey was possible only miles away from the arena, and McCoy being a teetotaler when he entered the ring, never had taken the precaution to provide his corner with it.

While he was trumfing about the ring he happened to glance down at the Gusskeeper's table and saw an old English friend, Col. Boone, who was just being served with a fine big portion of brandy and soda.

"If I could only get that," thought the kid to himself. An idea occurred. The kid straightened his way made by his mind if the Colonel didn't hurry in the process of consuming that booze that something might happen. The bell for the twelfth round sounded just then and McCoy stepped out. Working over in front of the others' stand McCoy feinted Curran into leading a fight and when it landed lightly on top of McCoy's head, down he went well sprawled out. As he groveled on the canvas he reached out of the ring seized the glass of brandy and straightening one knee he tossed the portion off as if he was sipping in one of the most fashionable cafes.

Immediately there was an uproar. The referee had started the count as soon as McCoy fell and while the lighter was drinking the liquor, he continued to count, waveringly apparently not knowing just what to do about the wild claims of foul from the corner. The hesitancy of the referee gave McCoy several additional seconds and when he arose he was much refreshed.

Curran meanwhile didn't know what to do but he continued to box mechanically and McCoy noting this condition started in to force and soon obtained a big shade. The affair went the twenty rounds and McCoy was given the decision at the finish. While never an advocate of liquor, McCoy said afterward he never knew but one shot was so efficacious in ending a man around.

But what would you have done had you been referee. Was it foul or not?

Kid McCoy, famous sold timer, and one of the greatest boxers especially considered along tricky and usual lines we ever had, was boxing that big English gladiator, Petty Officer Curran, in Nice a few years ago during one of the kid's periodical come-backs. The ring never had a perfecter quite like the kid.

The floater fighter was in excellent shape he thought, and looked it and was feeling so fine that when the fight started he was inclined to try and josh the Million out of humor, ate got a little careless in the very first round and Curran hit him a bang in the mouth that sent the bridge on which McCoy carried some top teeth.

THE ALDRICH HOUSE

Another headline bill is offered at the Portsmouth Theatre this week, headed by "California," a musical comedy sketch. The cast includes eight persons and a performing mule. Don't fail to see it. Positively a scream from start to finish. This act is a novelty. A big act from Keith's "big time" circuit, which includes all the big cities.

Powder and Campton, the second act on the program, are singing and dancing comedians of real class. They are excellent singers and topnotch dancers and their line of talk is clever.

The act offered by Louis Plott is a very good one, indeed. He is a singer of no mean ability, and he has some very fetching character songs.

The picture program for Monday and Tuesday is as usual a good one. The fourth episode of the "Road to Ruin" series is shown. It is entitled "The Ring of Death," a most interesting and thrilling picture. If you have started this series, don't fail to see this one. If you haven't started yet, it isn't too late to begin now.

The other pictures include a "Ham" comedy, a Biograph drama entitled "The Summering Shot" and the latest Selig News Pictorial.

PORTSMOUTH YACHT CLUB HELD MOTOR BOAT PARADE

R. J. Boyd's Yacht, Edna, Won Cup
Saturday Afternoon

The Portsmouth Yacht Club held its decorated motor boat parade on Saturday afternoon. The cup for first prize went to the Edna, owned by Robert J. Boyd. The parade had been postponed from the Fourth of July program, on account of the threatening weather. Owing to similar weather conditions Saturday afternoon the entries were far from as large as had been expected. Only four boats entered into the contest, Sky Lark, flag ship, Com. Luke Ashworth; Edna, R. J. Boyd; Mgh, Richard O'Brien; and Bular and Moris, owned by Duffy and Berry.

The parade was witnessed by an enthusiastic crowd of yachtsmen and others, many visitors from other yacht clubs being present. The parade formed at 4:30 off Stewart's wharf, at the pier of a gun, and led by the flag ship, followed a course past the club to the cove, turning and going up river for some distance, then across to the navy yard and back, again passing the club-house, coming about and returning to the float.

The committee boat with the judges, accompanied the decorated boats from the start for half the distance. The judges were Benjamin Lombard, Henry Stackpole and Mr. Lybrook.

Owing to the fact that the presentation of the flag pole to the Play Grounds was made at the same time as the parade was held, many missed one of the prettiest sights that has taken place on the river in years. All of the boats presented a fine appearance with their gaily colored flags, and the officials in charge of the affair were somewhat disappointed that the attendance was not larger.

Among the visitors at the club Saturday was the "Fleur del Mer," owned and sailed by Commodore Blaisdell of the Long Island (New York) Yacht Club. The "Fleur del Mer" is one of the finest cruisers of its size seen in these waters, costing the owner over $30,000 to build. Commodore Blaisdell and his party are on a cruise off the New England coast and stopped at the Portsmouth Yacht Club to call on the commodore.

The Marlon C, with its owner, D. C. Comer and family, South Boston Yacht Club, were also visitors at the club, tying up at the float and remaining in the city some time. The Hendrick Hudson, with John T. Tully and party of New York, called at the club. Mr. Tully's cruiser has been in New England waters for the past two weeks.

A new addition to the Portsmouth Yacht Club fleet was made Saturday afternoon when Job Cleary sailed in to the harbor with the Vim. The Vim was received with a gun salute, fired by the commodore. She is one of the Souther Klasse boats and was the winner among the defenders of the Souther Klasse in the first races held on Marblehead with the German Souther Klasse boats several years ago.

AGED NEWBURYPORT SAIL MAKER RETIRES

Benjamin G. Davis, of Newburyport, sailmaker for nearly fifty years in that city, the last of generations of sailmakers of the same name, retired from business Saturday, having sold to Sidney W. Drown, formerly of this city, who has been in his employ for the past five years.

It is not for the reason that Mr. Davis has any desire to give up the business that he has taken this step, but it is because of failing sight which is so necessary for the success of his profession. Mr. Davis is in hopes and is encouraged to believe that this sense will some day be restored to him, and to regard it he will devote his whole attention.

The business was established May 4, 1733, by Ambrose Davis, who leased

April 23 of that year for six months, the brick building on Ferry wharf, where the descendants of Ambrose have since that time had the same sail loft.

Ambrose Davis was succeeded by his son, Benjamin, and the latter by his sons, Benjamin, Jr., and William A., when the firm name became Benjamin Davis, Jr., & Co., William A. being the father of Benjamin G., who became a partner about 1870, under the firm name of William A. Davis & Son.

The business was formerly sail making exclusively and in this ancient loft for over 150 years the sails for many of the ships built in Newburyport have been made by these generations of Davises.

When Benjamin G. Davis first began the trade of a sailmaker, 19 years ago, there were four or five in the business. With the decline of the ship building industry sail making naturally accompanied it, but there were sails to make for fleet sailing yachts on the Merrimack and this line of work claimed the attention of the concern, which also continued to make sails for such vessels as were built and owned there.

Of late years the making of awnings and tents has constituted the principal lines and in this Mr. Davis has enjoyed a high reputation, not confined to his home city, but extending to the surrounding cities and towns.

Mr. Davis Saturday transferred the business and good will to Mr. Drown, who previous to taking up his abode in Newburyport, was in the employ of his father, C. S. Drown, for five years in Portsmouth, and who was in the same business.

He is recommended to the trade by his predecessor, who cannot but regret that his name is not Davis.

Mr. Davis has had a long and honorable business career, and is a citizen who enjoys the highest esteem of all in the community, and he will have the best wishes of many friends as he lays down business activities.

DESTROYED WITHOUT WARNING

London, July 17.—That the liner Lusitania was destroyed with a loss of more than 1000 lives by two torpedoes fired by a German submarine without warning and not by an explosion of ammunition in her cargo, is the chief feature of the verdict rendered today by Lord Mersey, who presided at the investigation into the sinking of the liner on May 7.

The verdict criticizes the failure of Captain William T. Turner to follow the directions given him by the British Admiralty, but sums up the judgment against the German Admiralty in these words: "The whole blame for the catastrophe rests wholly upon those who plotted and committed the crime."

At the closing session of the world's Christian Endeavor convention in Chicago prayers were offered for the Rev. Dr. F. E. Clark, founder of the Christian Endeavor union, who, because of an attack of typhoid fever, was unable to attend the convention. The convention received a telegram from Mrs. Clark at Sagamore Beach, Mass., stating that Mr. Clark's condition was grave. New York won the 1915 meeting and Winnipeg, Canada, the 1916 convention. At the close of the Chicago convention representatives of fourteen foreign countries, including delegates from five of the warring nations expounded Christianity and world peace from the same platform.

WOMEN WILL TAKE PROMINENT PART IN G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT

(By Isabel Worrell Hall, Past National Senior Vice President Woman's Relief Corps.)

Washington, July 19.—Women will take a prominent part in the 49th annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, which will be held in Washington, September 27th to October 2d.

Four organizations of women allied with the Grand Army of the Republic will participate in the encampment. These are the Woman's Relief Corps, the Auxiliary to the Sons of Veterans, the Ladies of the G. A. R., and the Daughters of Veterans. Many thousands of members of the four organizations will be in Washington during the encampment and the Grand Review, which is to reproduce, as far as possible, the review of union troops in Washington by President Johnson and General Grant fifty years ago at the close of the Civil war.

Of the organizations of women connected with the Grand Army the largest and most important is the Woman's Relief Corps.

The Woman's Relief Corps is auxiliary to the Grand Army of the Republic, and its only auxiliary. The Ladies of the G. A. R. and the Daughters of Veterans are independent bodies, auxiliary to no organization.

The Woman's Relief Corps is the largest organization of women in the world under one eligibility clause, and one motto. It now numbers 167,000, with department organizations in 41 states, divided among 2,661 corps, as the local organizations are known. Besides these there are 37 detached corps, which thrive in ten southern and two western states where there are no department organizations.

The Woman's Relief Corps is the greatest philanthropic, charitable, and patriotic organization of women in the world.

It was organized at Denver, Col., in 1883, in response to the call of the Veterans for the organization of women that would be auxiliary to them and which would meet with them at national encampments, and assist them in the tremendous work which was becoming burdensome to the Grand Army, that of helping to care for the aged veterans and their dependent widows and children. Pensions were very small at that time, and the hardships of war were beginning to tell on the veterans who suffered from wounds and other disabilities incurred in the services of the country. At the encampment in Denver, the Woman's Relief Corps, comprised of "loyal women who never gave aid or comfort to the enemies of the Union," was organized and accepted by the Grand Army, which had called it into existence, and gave it the motto of the veteran body, "Fraternity, Charity and Loyalty," with the right to wear a badge with the medallion center of the G. A. R. badge.

Since its organization the Woman's Relief Corps has expended in charitable and relief work for veterans nearly $1,000,000. It built and equipped an army nurses' home in Ohio, where army nurses of the Civil war could be cared for. It has been instrumental in founding state homes in all the northern states where veterans and their wives may go together and spend their declining years in comfort. It instituted a patriotic curriculum in its regular work, and began the inculcation of patriotic teaching in the public schools of the country, a work which has been taken up by many other organizations since then. There are now more than 3,000 women whose work as "patriotic instructors" in corps and departments of the Woman's Relief Corps is commanding attention.

Beside the great sums spent in relief work the organization has given the Grand Army of the Republic about $15,000 in cash for its permanent fund, it gives the Grand Army of the Republic $1,000 annually.

In 1896 the Woman's Relief Corps accepted as a gift from the Department of Georgia, G. A. R., the old Andersonville prison stockade grounds, near Americus, Ga., and expended thousands of dollars in turning this into a park. Old Providence Spring has been canopied with stone, and its sweet waters are as refreshing today to travelers on the great Dixie highway as they were to the starving prisoners when it broke forth in August, 1861. The park with its neat cottage for war-worn wayfarers, its rose garden, peon orchard and other improvements, is now one of the garden spots of that section of Georgia. In its grounds seven great statues have erected splendid monuments to their dead of prison days, and the Woman's Relief Corps has just honored Clara Barton by erecting there a handsome monument to the founder of the American National Red Cross, who marked all graves in Andersonville, under government supervision.

The Woman's Relief Corps gave Andersonville to the United States, and it is now a government park.

These are but a few of the achievements of the Woman's Relief Corps, which will, next to the G. A. R., be the important factor at the coming National Encampment.

SERIOUSLY HURT AT YORK BEACH SUNDAY

Mrs. Charles Dodge of Deer Street
Hit by Motor Cycle While Alighting from Car

Mrs. Charles E. Dodge of 39 Deer street, this city, was seriously injured Sunday afternoon at York Beach, by being struck and knocked down by a motor cycle. She sustained a severe cut on her right arm, which necessitated the taking of twelve stitches to close the wound, three broken ribs, and it is feared that she may be suffering internal injuries as well.

Mr. and Mrs. Dodge left Portsmouth yesterday afternoon to visit their daughter, Mrs. Richard P. Davis, of South Berwick, Maine, who is occupying a cottage for the season at the beach near the Iduna Hotel. As she alighted from the electric car, she saw an automobile coming up the road from the beach. Stepping aside to avoid it she walked directly in front of a motor cycle driven by Ralph Gray of Rochester, N. H.

After the accident she was removed to her daughter's cottage, and Dr. E. C. Cook of York was called. He closed the wound in her arm, and, after an examination pronounced that her very badly injured, and suffering from three fractured ribs, and probably internal injuries.

On account of Mrs. Dodge's advanced years it is not possible to ascertain the full extent of her injuries at this time. Both Mr. and Mrs. Dodge are well known in this city, having been active in G. A. R. circles. Mr. Dodge being the present commander of Storer Post, No. 1, G. A. R. Late last evening she was resting as comfortably as could be expected, and will probably remain at her daughter's cottage until such time as it is thought safe to remove her to her own home.

ENTERTAINED BAY HAVEN YACHT CLUB

Members of Portsmouth Yacht Club
Prove Themselves Royal Hosts

The annual "get together" outing of the Portsmouth and Bay Haven Yacht Clubs was held on Sunday, at which the members of the local club acted as hosts, and needless to say, did themselves honor on the occasion.

About 10 o'clock, Sunday morning, eighteen motor boats of the Portsmouth Yacht Club, headed by Commodore Luke Ashworth, left the yacht club landing and went down the lower harbor and outside, where they cruised around until the Bay Haven Club fleet of twelve boats, headed by Commodore Lewis W. Crockett, put in an appearance.

The combined fleets paired off and in a procession returned to Fort McClary, Kittery Point, where the party landed on the beach.

Here a tempting shore dinner, consisting of steamed clams, fish chowder, sandwiches and crackers and cheese, was prepared. Needless to say that the hungry yachtsmen did justice to the meal, and declared they had never eaten one better. About seventy-five were present. Following the meal, a group photograph was taken by William Newell, after which Commodore Crockett made a short speech in which he expressed the gratitude and thanks of the Bay Haven members for the good time accorded them by the Portsmouth Club. This was responded to in a fitting manner by Commodore Luke Ashworth.

The remainder of the afternoon was passed in an all-around good time. The affair was a great success, and one of the most successful events ever conducted by the local yachtsmen.

The weather was ideal for such an occasion, and each member of the local club did his part in making the day such a big success.

Last August the Portsmouth Club was entertained at York by the Bay Haven Club, and the members of the Portsmouth Club returned the compliment Sunday. Now the local club has decided to make the affair an annual event, and as such will be looked forward to each year with great pleasure.

The combined fleet set sail at 4:00 o'clock, the York yachts returning to York Harbor and the Portsmouth Yacht Club sailing to the club.

An Unusual View.

The question of the treatment of convicted criminals is receiving much attention at the present time. There are many who feel that things should be different and the tendency in the agitation for changes seems to be toward lighter punishment. Many of the reformers are inclined to regard crime as a disease and to contend that treatment rather than punishment is what is needed.

This is the view taken by a writer in a communication to a prominent New York state paper, who believes the time will come when the present methods of dealing with criminals will be regarded as barbarous and unsound as those which prevailed in the early days of civilization. "But he believes the world is growing better and that 'there are more people who believe in corrective punishment, or treatment, as it ought to be called, as against punishment for revenge, than there were a generation ago.'"

It is a common error for those who feel that the law is too hard on its violators to regard the penalties inflicted by the courts as in the nature of revenge, whereas they are nothing of the sort. Even the extreme penalty of death for murder is not inflicted in a spirit of revenge, but for the protection of society and as a deterrent to such as would not hesitate to kill if they thought they could escape the penalty. All talk of revenge in connection with the legal punishment of crime is unwarranted.

The writer of the communication in question maintains that prison sentences should not be for definite terms. Prisoners should be confined only until such time as they are "cured" and this should be decided by a commission. "A person who is a menace to society should be confined as long as he is a menace," says the writer, who evidently feels that one should be released as soon as he ceases to be a menace. But no man is much of a menace to society when he is behind prison bars, and it is consequently safe to believe that definite terms will continue to be imposed for some time to come.

With the power of pardon and parole there are already quite sufficient means for shortening prison sentences. To make all sentences indeterminate and leave the rest in the hands of a commission would be a long step toward removing almost entirely the fear of the law, which is not as strong as it should be under the conditions that exist. It will be a hapless day for the country when the law ceases to have some terrors for evil doers.

It will take a great deal of uplift work, the teaching of citizenship and all that sort of thing to offset the effects of the Thaw case, which is one of the most flagrant travesties on justice in the history of this or any other country. The effect on the public mind, and especially on the minds of the young, is in extent beyond conjecture and in its nature evil, and evil only. In the light of such a glaring and grievous illustration it is worse than folly to talk about equality before the law.

This is a hard year for fish. In West Virginia there is complaint that whiskey seized by officers of the law and emptied into the streams is killing the fish, and some of the northern states are growing about oil washed from the highways destroying the denizens of the streams. The waters are indeed troubled, and it looks as if they would not be stilled either by oil or the fruits of the still.

One paper remarks that "at least the 170,000 women who are to work the farms of England will have no time to weep." But such things have been known as women working and weeping at the same time, and it is not necessary to go to England or to the scene of war to prove it.

The New York Sun explains at length the "linker's dam" and says it—the expression and not the article—can be used without compunction, as "there is no profanity about it." This should afford some relief to persons who like to be good but do not always feel that way.

Spain has ordered a strictly up-to-date submarine which will be built in the United States. She had plenty of them, such as they were, at the time of her late squabble with this country, but the trouble with them was that when they went down they wouldn't come up again.

Attorney General Gregory is planning to provide employment for federal prisoners at Atlanta and to give a part of their earnings to their families. But there are inmates of that institution whose families are not in need of financial assistance.

General Nelson A. Miles and John L. Sullivan, former heavyweight champion of the world, are not working in harmony in Anti-Saloon League harness, which proves that not all the discord in the world is due to rum.

CURRENT OPINION

International Peace Can Never Come to the World Through Preparation for War.

Whenever and however the killing of men by men under cover of war can be prevented, let all promising modes be submitted and tried, for war is the world's greatest crime. One thing is certain, peace upon earth can never come from "preparedness for war"; hence let us discard that fallacy and try other means. It is submitted that a league of peace embracing the chief nations is worthy of consideration.

War, as the guardian of international peace, after twenty centuries of trial, has proved a traitor thereto, waging, as it is today, the greatest of all wars that ever devastated the earth and sacrificing thousands of men weekly by death in this twentieth century of Christianity.

I submit that we have tried this enemy of the peaceful brotherhood of men too long. Now the hosts of blessed world peace should be summoned to perform their stern duty, which shall cease only when the prophecy is fulfilled: "Men shall beat their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruning hooks. Nations shall not lift up sword against nation; neither shall they learn war any more."

Any platform short of this fails to bridge the chasm between peace and war. We must span the roaring torrent from side to side and never rest until the day of blessed peace returns.

We have abolished slavery from civilized nations, the owning of man by man. The next great step that the advanced powers of the civilized world should take is to abolish war, the killing of man by man. God speed that day!

THE FRENCH NAUGHTY BOYS SHOW GREAT COURAGE

London, July 17.—The Paris correspondent of a London newspaper writes:

"I have spoken with many wounded soldiers but those who have made the greatest impression on me were the men of the North African division. No matter whether they be Moors who in their youth fought against France in their deserts or youngsters incorporated in the famous 'Bat d'Al' the Naught Boys of France, they all show a magnificent courage. The Zouaves, too—the buggsy trousered men with the devil-may-care air—have fought and bled for France and are now in the front line of the trenches.

Jumping along on crutches the other day I met a fair haired youngster who belongs to the regiment of the Naught Boys. With a dreamy look in his eyes he told me his adventures since Charloir, which they took seven times at the point of the bayonet. After Charloir, during the retreat they were surrounded by the Prussian guards. The Naught Boys hurled their flag so that it would not fall into the hands of the enemy, and then cut their way out of the circle.

Coming down in their retreat they met the Hussar Guard again near Rheims, just after that regiment had marched through the town to the music of the life and drum. It was in the marches of St. Gond that the second encounter took place, and Rosalie, as they call the bayonet, played another important role. This time they met the advancing gray coated hordes with machine gun fire and spit and goot holes in their ranks.

"It was a fine concert," said the boy. "We began with an overture played by the band then we pointed in with our rifles a little later and then the orchestra, old Poch, told the solaxiquins to play the finale. That just about finished them, but as soon as the bombardment stopped we were at them with Rosalie and made them dance to our tune.

"The first row of Germans stood stock still like dummies. We saw some of them behind begin to run. That did it. We cut right through them, and then charged back again to cut down the remaining men. Then we went back and the artillery polished them off.

"After the Marne, the Naught Boys were sent to help to block the road to Calais. When the worst was over in Flanders the 'Bat d'Al' were hurried back in motor cars to Trévi-le-Viel, to bar the way to Compiègne. Here they were fated to meet the Prussian Guard again.

"At this time Trévi-le-Viel was the weakest point in the French line. Dominated by hills on which the enemy had planted artillery, the Germans were able to attack at will, but the Naught Boys held on. This is the story of how they held the enemy at bay:

"For several hours the battle raged without either side being able to claim an advantage. Then, when their dead were piled high on the field the Germans retired for the last time.

"Some of the individual deeds were extraordinary. A sergeant engaged in a single combat with a German non-commissioned officer. They chased each other round and round a tree for twenty minutes. Then the sergeant caught his adversary in the ribs with his bayonet and forced him to come into the open.

"They struggled like primitive men, half fighting, half wrestling. They fell, and rolled over and over each was raging round them. First one other. All the time the main battle came on top and tried to beat the life out of the other; then the under man would give a twist of his limbs and become top dog.

"Presently the German became weaker and weaker and the men remained locked together for some moments. Not a word was spoken but the men seemed to understand each other perfectly and they broke away, crawling a few feet apart and smiled.

"After rest they began again. This time the German tried to butt the Frenchman in the stomach with his head, a form of attack which aroused the sergeant's wrath. He determined to teach the German a lesson in the art of 'la boxe anglaise,' as witnessed by him at the Paris Wonderland.

"It must have been an eerie sight, that of those two men engaged in deadly combat, in complete oblivion of the groans of the dying and the bullets flying around.

"The Frenchman finally gained the top and made signs that he was now top dog, and that the fight was over; the German replied by making a sudden move that sent the sergeant sprawling.

"Just as the German rose to his feet to throw himself on his fallen adversary a bullet struck him in the heart and he fell dead. The sergeant then found his rifle and resumed his place in the firing line."

PRESIDENT RETURNS TO WASHINGTON, WILL ACT SOON

Next Note Nearly Ready and Germany Will Receive Definite Statement of Consequences of Further Violation of American Rights.

Cornish, July 18.—President Wilson left this afternoon for Washington, where he will arrive early tomorrow morning. His family remains here. Practically the entire population of Cornish and Windsor, Vt., saw him off.

With the return today of President Wilson the formulation of the policy to be pursued by the United States as a consequence of Germany's latest note on submarine warfare will be begun.

The President will collaborate with Secretary Lansing in completing a note to the German government that has been tentatively proposed to be dispatched probably before the end of the coming week.

While details as to the course which is to be followed are withheld, it is known that both the President and Mr. Lansing have practically made up their minds that the next communication to Germany should contain a definite statement regarding the consequences of further violations of American rights. There is little likelihood that there will be any further discussion of the principle involved.

By the recent attempt to destroy the British liner Otrunda, carrying a score of Americans on her voyage to the United States with no munitions or contraband, officials here feel that the position of the United States as stated in its previous notes has been materially strengthened. They declare it bears out the American contention, that the character of a vessel, her destination and the cargo can be safely determined only by visit and search.

As yet official information is lacking to show whether the Otrunda was attacked without warning, and what were the circumstances of her encounter with the German submarine. In discussion of the case stress is laid upon the fact that the vessel was en route to the United States and carried no cargo of importance, making the attack on a vessel carrying Americans seemingly wholly unwarranted.

A statement of the circumstances probably will be made by American passengers aboard the Otrunda to the state department, although the American government might take cognizance of newspaper statements. A thorough investigation of the facts will be made and a request probably will be sent to the German government for its report on the affair.

TO MEET AT HAMPTON BEACH AUGUST 4

Program of Great Interest Being Arranged for Farmers' Day.

Hampton Beach, July 18.—The annual state agricultural meeting held under the auspices of the state department of agriculture, Andrew L. Baker, Commissioner will be at the beach on August 4.

There will be two sessions, in the forenoon at 10.30 and in the afternoon at 1.30. Both will be held at the Casino. Abbott, state leader of county agents; music, orchestra; address, "The Dairy Situation in New England," P. M. Harwood, dairy bureau, Massachusetts State Board of Agriculture.

Afternoon session, 1.30 o'clock—Music, orchestra; address, His Excellency Roland H. Spaulding, governor of New Hampshire; soprano solo, Mrs. W. P. Gray, Portsmouth; address, "New England Agriculture," Charles H. Tuck, professor of extension work, Cornell University, New York; contralto solo, Mrs. O. W. Priest, Portsmouth; address, "Community Organization," Thomas N. Oliver, Harvard University, and the department of agriculture, Washington, D. C.; duet, Mrs. Gray, Mrs. Priest; address, "A Boost for Rural New Hampshire," Frank Knox of Manchester.

PEOPLES' OPINION

Let's Start Something.

Editor—In the recent Navy Yard news in the Herald I noticed that the Topeka race boat crew calls the Southern boat crew cutlery howlers. All right, with all due credit to Jack Renner and his crew, for there is no doubt that they put up some pretty hard work, but still I am of the opinion that the Southern crew can trim them. So let's start something on another race and settle this controversy. Portsmouth Yacht Club, what do you say on another race in the near future?

Will Meet in San Francisco July 23 and 24.

San Francisco July 19.—The Sons of the American Revolution an organization which had its birth in San Francisco in 1875 will meet here July 23 and 24 immediately following the National Congress which will be held in Portland.

Forty-eight states now have societies in this organization which has more than 15,000 members. Ten delegates from San Francisco will go to Portland Congress and escort the members to San Francisco.

All plans for entertainment have been made in San Francisco. The delegates will be met at the ferry building by a reception committee consisting of Col. and Mrs. C. H. Blinn, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Crocker, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Dutton, Mr. and Mrs. Zoch S. Eldredge, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Barker, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Hyde and Horace Davis.

Headquarters will be at the Palace Hotel. An automobile trip through the scenic parts of the city will be the first thing on the program. The delegates will go to the exposition at noon and will be in the hands of the guests committee for the rest of the day. Luncheon has been arranged in the California building. A banquet will be held on the evening of the 23d at the Palace Hotel.

On the 24th which has been designated as "Sons of the Revolution Day" at the Exposition, the delegates and members will meet at the Scott street entrance at one o'clock in the afternoon and will march to the Court of Abundance where exercises will be held.

FIREGRAPHS

What I would like to know is what is to be done with the money that will come from the sale of the manure at the central fire station. Are they going to buy some horses or a motor truck? Perhaps by 1950 they may get enough money to build that much-needed central station.

It is rumored that the members of one of the companies in the department are adverse to donating a few of their hard earned dollars to entertain the visiting firemen in September.

Fifty-one years ago July 18 1864, occurred the Penhallow street fire. I remember it well, as I worked on the brakes of Sagamore Engine No. 5. It burned over quite a territory and led to the purchase of two steam fire engines.

MOWING, ROLLING AND SPRINKLING THE LAWN

There is no hard and fast rule to be followed in connection with mowing the lawn, but clipping twice a week is not apt to injure it, and will induce the formation of a good turf, according to the lawn specialists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Too frequent clipping, however, is a drain on the vitality of the grass, and frequently results in permanent injury.

There is some difference of opinion as to whether clippings should be removed after mowing, but in general their removal is advised, especially during wet weather, since if left to lie on the surface they are conducive to the growth of molds, which in turn produce injury to the turf. On new seedlings, however, or where the grass is thin, clippings can frequently be allowed to remain with benefit.

New seedlings should not be clipped closely, and during the hot weather of midsummer and early fall the mower should be set high for old and new grass alike. The roller should be used discreetly. New grass is frequently benefited by a light rolling after the first cutting. Old sod should be rolled in the spring to firm the surface that has been loosened by freezing and thawing, but during midseason it is very doubtful if the lawn should be rolled even lightly, especially where the soil is of a heavy nature.

There are probably more mistakes made in connection with the watering of the lawn than in any other phase of its management. The practice of sprinkling as it is almost universally followed is fundamentally wrong; not that the sprinkler does not furnish enough water to the grass during the season, but that it does not furnish it in properly distributed quantities. Sprinkling for a short period may appear to wet the sod thoroughly, but in reality the water does not penetrate much below the surface. This encourages the formation of surface roots and makes the grass less resistant to the severe conditions of weather and usage.

Except in rare cases, the lawn should not be watered oftener than two or three times a week, provided watering is done properly. A thorough soaking is necessary and should be given in the late afternoon or early morning. The ordinary type of revolving spray is quite satisfactory, but the amount of water applied by it is usually much less than appears. The point to be borne in mind is that the ground should be thoroughly saturated at each application to a depth of three inches in depth.

STEEL FLAG POLE AND FLAG PRESENTED TO CITY

Gift of Equal Suffrage League Given Formally to City Saturday Afternoon--Speeches, Band, Singing and Exercises by Children Mark Ceremonies

A gathering of 2500 citizens, men, women and children, were at the Play Grounds Saturday afternoon to witness the ceremonies accompanying the gift to the city of Portsmouth of the steel flag staff by the Equal Suffrage League of Portsmouth. The ceremonies were short, but the words spoken by Mrs. Mary I. Wood in presenting the gift and by Mayor Yeaton in its acceptance by him on behalf of the city were very impressive, both in their earnestness and in their simplicity.

Following the presentation and acceptance of the pole, a twelve-foot American flag, the gift of the Portsmouth Herald, was raised to the masthead, the Naval Band playing the "Star Spangled Banner." This was followed by the playing and singing of "America" by fifty little children, who accompanied the singing with a flag drill, under the direction of Miss Cloud. After singing "America" the little ones pledged their allegiance to the flag.

The Naval Band marched onto the field at 3:30, playing "Our Director," and came to a halt near the flag staff. Then they played one more march number, Mrs. Wood was introduced by P. W. Hartford, president of the Suffrage League, in a few well-chosen words, in which he paid the women of the league a high compliment on the fact that they took sufficient pride in the Play Grounds to donate the gift. He referred to the league as a "patriotic body of good citizens whose interest in the Play Grounds led them to the donation of this grand flag pole, so Old Glory might continue to fly there, constantly in the eyes of these coming American citizens."

Mrs. Wood gracefully acknowledged the applause accorded her as she stood up to speak after her introduction by Mr. Hartford, and her address working for our country's common good.

"We are Republicans, and Democrats, and Socialists, and even some of us were Progressives, instead of being all Patriots eager for the general weal."

"We are Sons and Daughters of the Colonial Wars, we are Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution, priding ourselves upon the traditions and prestige of our ancestors, instead of being simply fellow human beings working side by side for the public benefit."

"Because the American people are thus woefully handicapped, we welcome especially those evidences of progress and progressive thought which tend to overthrow such false barriers as these and to build up a new civilization which shall rest upon a more secure foundation."

"We, as an organization, are glad, your Honor, to help the city in its desire to float over the heads of its children a flag which today represents a country eager, not for the destruction of its neighbors, but the upbuilding of its own institutions and the development of its own resources."

"First and foremost among these institutions and these resources is the conservation and development of child-life."

"In this work no group of citizens are more keenly alive nor more vitally interested than the body of women, most of them themselves mothers, who make up this and other Equal Suffrage Leagues."

"The Play Ground movement and our League are working toward the same end and it is in full recognition of this fact and a keen sense of our responsibility as women and as mothers that we present to you, Mr. Mayor, this flag pole."

"May the flag wave daily from its top over a Play Ground where equal rights and equal responsibilities are for all its children, regardless of sex, creed, color, tradition or prejudice."

"Thus shall America show to all the world a new meaning in Twentieth Century Civilization."

The mayor, on behalf of the city, thanked the league through Mrs. Wood. Mr. Yeaton also referred to them as a body composed of patriotic women and said that the gift and the flag flying at the top of the staff was not only for the children, but for every man, woman and child in the city. He referred to the gift as one of the most acceptable and useful things in the public Play Grounds, and hoped that the citizens of the city would fully appreciate it.

After the flag had been raised, Mr. Hartford, at the request of Miss Sally Hovey, president of the Equal Suffrage League, spoke for a moment, telling of another gift to the Play Grounds made by the members of the Equal Suffrage League. This was a cup, presented to the girls who are working on the Play Grounds, studying and exercising. The cup is to be contested for by the little girls under such conditions as Miss Cloud, the director, shall make.

Miss Mildred Adams in accepting the cup in behalf of the girls said: "It is with an especial pride and deep sense of gratitude that I accept this expression of co-operation on the part of the Suffrage League with the keenest interests of the Portsmouth Playgrounds."

"These same citizens were among the pioneers in the playground movement in Portsmouth and this is but another expression of kindly thought. We no longer need to educate the public as to the value of the playground movement. Every day in our city there is public demonstration of its true worth; and it is through the hearty co-operation of the Portsmouth people that we are able to flourish and I am sure this beautiful trophy will awaken in the heart of each child a spirit of rivalry and fair play. So in behalf of the children of the playground, I thank you."

The flag was raised to the masthead by another of the little girls, Miss Etheldreda Scobey. She was assisted by Supervisor George McPheters.

On the platform were the officers and many members of the Portsmouth Equal Suffrage League, together with invited guests.

HOW MUCH DOES A MAN'S HOUSE COST IN NEW YORK?

New York, July 19.—How much does a man's house cost in New York?

At first glance this looks like a foolish question. New Yorkers live in apartment houses. The cottage and garden is a rarity.

But by dividing the cost of an apartment house by the number of family units it contains we get something which may be called the cost of a householder's dwelling.

Figuring thus we learn that it will cost $3,000 to house the average Manhattan family in the new buildings, plans for which were filed in the first six months of this year. This is a great drop from 1913, when the average was $4,562.

In Brooklyn the average cost of covering the heads of the apartment house family is $1,300; in Queens $1,600; in the Bronx, $1,500.

Despite the war there is an apartment house building boom. The apartment house plans filed for the first six months of this year in the greater city almost equaled in cost those of the whole year 1914.

But just because we live in hive-like dwellings, it isn't safe to conclude that there isn't plenty of foliage here. This is proved by the cry for help raised by the select order of hay fever sufferers.

Rag weed is flourishing in New York so luxuriously this year that the hay feverers expect to give an excellent imitation of machine gun attack about August 15.

"Swat the rag weed," is the battle cry, which Secretary Jerome of the United States Hay Fever Association is asking everyone to take up and the Board of Health has adopted a resolution officially abolishing the pesky nose-licker.

WITH THE SPORTS

New York, July 19.—After all, what's the use of playing for Freddie Welsh to get a knockout beating? The chances are about ten to one that whoever succeeds Welsh in the lightweight throne will be the very same thing that Welsh has been doing—dodging decision bouts.

There isn't any rule in pugilism that forces a champion to defend his title at given periods under penalty of losing his title by default. And what a crying shame it is that such a rule is not in force. Oh yes, it has been proposed and talked of for years. But that is all the farther the movement has gone. In the spring of 1914 it looked as if an international commission having supervision over all the fighters in the world might become a reality. Then the war came along and shattered the day dream.

The big fault with appointing a commission in America to govern all the fighters is that no one in the pugilistic game has any authority now to appoint such a commission were appointed, the fighters might refuse to live up to its dictates.

The only way out seems to be through our dear old congress. Now, if some congressman would take the matter up and his fellow congressmen would help him push the thing through the pugilistic atmosphere would be clarified for all time.

The bill should provide that a pugilistic champion must defend his title in a decision bout every six months or lose the title by default. If he defaulted a commission would name six or eight aspirants to stage elimination bouts for the purpose of determining the new champion.

Of course in cases like Freddie Welsh's an American commission wouldn't have complete power. But it could bar any foreign champion from fighting in the U. S. A. if he hadn't met a formidable foe in a decision bout over a six months stretch.

The commission could see to it that a champion didn't do any lemon picking when choosing his foe for the final bout. That would mean real championship battles.

Such a commission having full supervision over the pugilistic game in the United States could draw a lot of new rules for the observance by pugilists and help the fighting game. The game is in a pretty pretty condition right now because of the no-decision laws in many states and the bashfulness of champions when requested to appear in a final bout. It needs something to lift it out of the rut and lift it soon.

All we need is a brave congressman to introduce a bill creating a national pugilistic commission and a few hundred more senators and congressmen to vote for the bill.

Jess Willard has been so busy trying steers or something like that in his cowboy show, and gathering in the shekels afterward, that he hasn't been able to do much thinking about defending his title. Chances are that Tompkins Jones the managerial scout, and assistant to Willard in the shekel gathering stand, won't let Jess think about such a barbarous thing as fighting until all the shekels are gathered from the sawdust rings.

The fight fans had hoped that Willard would battle with Jim Coffey on Labor Day but the hopes have fled. Jess probably will stick until the

"How long has home-breaking been a sight for ladies?" or something of that sort, remarked Shakespeare. William was a bit old-fashioned, wasn't he? If he would come to Manhattan right now he would find young ladies by the score enjoying the sight of home-breaking (by which ill-sounding term he denominated wrestling) in one of the building tango palaces.

This is the latest thing in cabaret attractions. Between free-for-alls of the fox trot and hesitation variety, the enterprising manager of this dance garden now purveys thirty minutes of heavyweight grappling.

Gotham-Knickerbocker is reminded of the Turk who asked a rich man why he danced when he could just as well hire persons to dance for him. The modern dancer improves on both the rich man and the Turk—he watches the latest clutches and then throws his arms about his buxom partner and tries them himself.

In nine months the Health department weighed 10,000 New York school children who asked for working papers. The average weight of the girls was greater than that of the boys by a slight margin, although the former were a trifle shorter.

The heaviest class of boys was those of Russian, Polish and Bohemian stock. They weighed 103.13 pounds. From this the weights ran through the Jewish stock, German stock, boys of American born parents, and Italian stock to the boys of English, Scotch, or Irish stock, who were the lightest of all, the average being 102.41 pounds. The German boys were the tallest and the Italians the shortest. Among the girls, the Russians, Poles and Lithuanians were the tallest and the Germans the heaviest.

shelk gathering pastime becomes hereditary—and fruitless. In other words the "champion of champions" probably won't mingle in any battles until after January 1st—and probably much later.

The Giants retained one of the Russian army. Beaten to a frazzle on numerous occasions, its doughty leader confines to issue official bulletins stating that the beating was suffered for strategic reasons only, and asking the public to "wait until we get started."

Women want to be enfranchised. They claim they have as much right to vote as men. They assert they are just as brave. And then they go and wear furs in the summer.

Henny Kauff is more to be pitied than censured. The prize heaped upon him during the past year went to his head and caused him to become afflicted with one of the most exaggerated cases of ego in baseball history.

Henny may recover and he may not, but even if he does he has lost for all time the high esteem in which the fans once held him.

The town of Seattle became considerably peeved recently when some golfing person said that it rained so much in the Washington metropolis that a golfer needed a row boat in going around the course. And so Seattle has come to the fore with facts and figures to show that Seattle's average rainfall is less than in any other city of its size in the United States.

The baseball experts didn't think much of the 1915 pennant chances of the White Sox after they learned that a husher manager was to lead the team. But this husher person—"Larson" Harry Rowland by name—seems to be doing so well that the White Sox fans are making world series reservations already.

An umpire in one of the western towns believes in the "safety first" rule. When he took his position behind the bat in a recent game a Winchester rifle was slung under his arm, and an automatic bulged from his hip pocket.

In the meantime, what's become of Jack Johnson? His sudden slipping beyond the pugilistic horizon has been one of the surprising events in the modern history of pugilism. No explanation has dropped so completely out of sight—and of mind—as has the big Smoker, since that Havana affair.

Reports for Duty.

Constructor R. N. Schlubach, recently on duty as inspector of hull material at Mulhail, Pa., reported for duty in the industrial department today.

POLICE COURT.

The police heard in at a pink tea at the residence of Salvatore Gange at No. 91 Russell street on Sunday and today the heat was up for a hearing in the municipal court on a charge of keeping malt liquor for sale.

Something attracted Officer Anderson to the booze fest and on his arrival the guests, including three soldier boys, were in the height of merriment. The party was engaged in the consumption of home products to the amount of three cases. The soldiers told the cop that Landlord Gange had invited them to sit with him at the festive board and that the booze went with the eats. Officer Anderson thought three cases was too much for the banquet and walked the host and his stock of liquids to headquarters.

When Gange appeared in the court today he pleaded not guilty and asked the court to allow him time to secure some witnesses in his behalf. The court told him to have them there at 2 o'clock this afternoon for further hearing.

Two cases of assault and several for drunkenness will also be heard at the afternoon session.

CUT BIG GASH IN BACK OF RIGHT HAND

William Dawson of 155 Cabot street, and an employee of the Frank Jones Brewing Company was injured while at work in the bottling room of the plant Saturday afternoon. A bottle which Dawson was handling burst, and a piece of the glass cut a big gash in the back of his right hand, severing an artery. Dr. Herbert L. Taylor attended the injured man and took four stitches to close the gash.

FELL DOWN STAIRS.

Mrs. Crowley of Vaughan Street Injured at Her Home.

Mrs. Jeremiah Crowley, a resident of Vaughan street, was quite badly injured at her home on Friday night by a fall down stairs. Although she was considerably bruised by the fall she escaped with no broken bones.

OWNER WAS INDIGNANT

On Saturday afternoon one of the delivery wagons of the Atlantic Express Company that was left standing on Congress street during the absence of the driver, backed into an automobile owned by Arthur Phillips of Fall River, Mass. The mudguard was slightly scratched by the tailboard of the express team. The owner of the machine was quite indignant over the occurrence and called on Officer Murphy to obtain the name of the driver of the team.

The hot weather of Saturday and Sunday caused a general exodus of Portsmouth people to the beaches. At Hampton Beach one look scarcely a turn, without meeting someone from this city.

Auto truck furniture moving by Margeson Brothers. Tel. 570.

The train from Concord and Manchester on Sunday morning consisted of eight heavily laden passenger cars and was drawn by two locomotives, an unusual sight on the Concord and Portsmouth branch.

Oil stoves, hammocks, lawn swings, baby carriages, refrigerators, at Margeson Brothers.

The big bridge across Hampton river was discovered on fire about 11 o'clock Saturday night by members of an automobile party who happened to be crossing the structure. The blaze was extinguished with slight damage.

A large auto bus containing thirty employees of the E. J. York Company lumber dealers of Dover, passed through this city on Sunday evening on their way home from an outing at Greer's Beach, given by their employers.

The crowd at Hampton Beach on Sunday was the largest of any Sunday of the season, but it was only a drop in the bucket as compared with the throng at Revere Beach. Here nearly 300,000 sought relief from the heat of the nearby cities.

SURFMEN RETIRE.

Three Dropped From Coast Guard Service.

On July 15 the following retirements took place in the Coast Guard service: No. 1 Surfman Samuel Neal, on duty in the 11th district at the Harbor Beach station, having been on active duty for 33 years; Surfmen Jeremiah Tracy, of the 10th district, Marblehead station, having served 30 years, and Charles J. Weston, of the 4th district, Rockaway station, having attained the age of 64 years. Mr. Weston has served actively for 25 years.

Automobile and motorcycle accidents are becoming too frequent to suit the sober thinking public.

OPponents CANNOT BE SUITED

The results of equal suffrage are no longer a purely academic question. Women are already voting in ten States of the Union, as well as in a number of foreign countries. In some they have had the ballot for many years. As a matter of fact and experience, we do not find that equal suffrage has anywhere led to the overthrow of the home or brought in a reign of immorality. Opponents used to prophesy that it would subvert all the foundations. Now they complain, on the ground that it has made so little difference! Such differences as it has made have been distinctly in the direction of raising moral standards and throwing added safeguards about the home.

With the Photo Plays that have placed
Portsmouth on the Motion Picture Map
Is the Real Cause for the Success of Portsmouth's Popular Vaudeville Theatre

THE BILL FOR MONDAY, JULY 19, IS A "CORKER"

"CALIFORNIA" is the title of the comedy sketch with music and eight people that will occupy the headline position for three days, starting Monday. This act has played all the big Keith time, and is a novelty entirely different from the average so-called comedy musical acts. In addition to the eight people there is a performing Jackass.

The next on the bill is "POWDER AND CAMPON." This is not an ordinary act, but an act of merit, up-to-the-minute in songs, clever sayings, and dancing. Two men.

LOUIS PIOTTI, single, and one of the best known singers in vaudeville, and in fact the highest priced artist that has been seen on the local boards this season. You will talk about this singer after you hear him.
